Vitamins & Mineral Supplements

Why take vitamin and mineral supplements?

Many vitamins and minerals are essential, contributing to the body's normal function. While dietitians recommend that you obtain most vitamins and minerals through your diet, this isn't always possible.

For example, if you don't consume enough fruits, vegetables or other healthy foods, a multivitamin may fill nutritional gaps. A multivitamin also may be beneficial if you have certain food allergies or intolerances, are pregnant, or have a disease or condition that affects nutrient intake.

A multivitamin cannot replace a healthy, well-balanced diet. The body recognizes and absorbs the nutrients naturally found in foods much better than a supplement.

For example, when it comes to vitamin C, you can obtain 100% of your needs by taking a vitamin C capsule. Or you can consume an orange and receive not only vitamin C, but also beta carotene, calcium and other nutrients.

But which is a better choice?

The orange is a better choice. Because many foods also contain fibre and phytochemicals — substances that may protect against certain cancers, heart disease, osteoporosis and diabetes. Supplements don't include these substances. However, as mentioned above, a daily vitamin is sometimes a good option to support health and well-being.

Acne & Skin Care

Acne is a skin condition that occurs when your hair follicles become plugged with oil and dead skin cells. It causes white heads, blackheads or pimples. Acne is most common among teenagers, though it affects people of all ages.

Depending on its severity, acne can cause emotional distress and scar the skin. The earlier you start treatment, the lower your risk of such problems.
